To invoke my program just run the main method which runs my test suite.

An assumption I made was that if null was passed in for the Sym class constructor it makes the type a string of length of 0.